1 A legendary temple that still stands today Jeondeungsa Temple

📍 37-41, Jeondeungsa-ro, Gilsang-myeon, Ganghwa-gun
☎ 032) 937-0125

Jeondeungsa Temple sits inside Samrangseong Fortress which, according to legend, was built by the three sons of Dangun. Jeondeungsa Temple was originally built and named the Jinjongs Temple during the reign of King Sosurim of the Goguryeo Dynasty. However, during the reign of King Chungnyeol of the Goryeo Dynasty, the temple was renamed to its current name after Princess Jeonghwa donated a jade pagoda (deung). In 1678 (4th year of the reign of King Sukjong), Jeondeungsa Temple fell under the protection and control of the Joseon Dynasty royal court after it was designated as an archive for the annals of the Royal government. Today, the temple is home to 17 designated cultural heritage assets, including its main sanctuary, the Yaksajeon Hall, and Buddhist temple bell.

2 Birthplace of the Dangun Mythology Chamseongdan Altar (Manisan Mountain)

📍 18, Manisan-ro 675beon-gil, Hwado-myeon, Ganghwa-gun
☎ 032) 930-7068

The Chamseongdan Altar was built by Dangun to pay his respects to the heavens. The roughly hewn foundation is shaped in a circle to represent the heavens, while the top section is shaped in a rectangular arrangement to represent the earth. Overall, it follows the philosophy of "Cheonwonjibang" (the heaven is round, the earth is rectangular). In October each year, the torch is lit by the Chilseonyeo of Gangwa at the Chamseongdan Altar.

3 A World Heritage and the face of Ganghwa Ganghwa Dolmen

📍 994-19, Ganghwa-daero, Hajeom-myeon, Ganghwa-gun
☎ 032) 933-3624

Ganghwa-gun is home to more than 120 dolmens across Naega-myeon, Hajeom-myeon, and around the Goryeosan Mountain ridge line. Most of them are table-shaped dolmens, which were prevalent during the bronze age. Five of the dolmens in Ganghwa, including the Ganghwa Dolmen and Jeomgol Dolmen were registered as World Heritage in December 2000.

4 Take a glimpse of North Korea Ganghwa Peace Observatory

📍 797, Jeonmangdae-ro, Yangsa-myeon, Ganghwa-gun
☎ 032) 930-7062
🕒 9:00-18:00 (Winter 17:00)

It is a great opportunity to see and feel the culture and daily affairs of North Korean people up close. To the east, you will see the Gaeoseong Industrial Complex and the Imjingang River, and to the west, you will be able to observe North Korean people carrying on with their lives, a mock village for propaganda purposes, the Gaeoseong Industrial Complex Tower, and the Songaksan Mountain.

5 A historical site where people fought against foreign invasion Ganghasanseong Fortress

📍 Gangwa-eup, Ganghwa-gun

Built in earnest in 1224, Ganghasanseong Fortress was originally designed to defend against the second Mongolian invasion during the Goryeo Dynasty. It features four gates - Anpanu Gate (south), Cheomwaru Gate (west), Manghanru Gate (east), Jinsonru Gate (north) - and defensive fortifications - Amnun, Samun, Jangdae. If you climb the Ganghasanseong Fortress, you can get a bird's eye view of Ganghwa-eup.

6 Where the Joseon Dynasty made its last stand in history Chojijin Fort

📍 58, Haeandong-ro, Gilsang-myeon, Ganghwa-gun
☎ 032) 937-9365

As one of the 12 jinbo (fort/fortification) structures defending the Ganghwa Strait, Chojijin Fort was on the first invasion route foreign powers took to invade the Joseon Dynasty (the United States warships invaded Joseon in 1871). Chojjin Fort was also the place Joseon naval forces battled a Japanese battleship called the "Utsuro" Chojjin features some of the cannons the Joseon navy used during the battle, and you will be able to see evidence of cannon balls that hit the fortress walls and pine trees near the fort.

7 The first Hanok-style cathedral in Korea Ganghwa Anglican Church

📍 336, Gwancheong-ri, Ganghwa-eup, Ganghwa-gun
☎ 032) 934-6171 🕒 10:00-18:00

The Ganghwa Anglican Church is a tile-roofed house built using a wooden frame and bricks. It remains the oldest Hanok-style cathedral in Korea. The interior was inspired by the basilicas of Western Europe, while the exterior was inspired by Buddhist temples found across Asia. It features an appealing blend of eastern and western architectural designs and represents the history of the Catholic Church in Korea.

8 Living and breathing home of Goryeo history Goryeogung Palace Site

📍 42, Bukmun-gil, Ganghwa-eup, Ganghwa-gun
☎ 032) 930-7078 🕒 9:00-18:00

Inside the gates of the Goryeogung Palace Site, there is a well and a Zelkova tree that is more than 400 years old. Behind the tree is the Ganghwa Yusubu Dongheon (the Magistrate's office of Ganghwa). To the north of the Dongheon building, there is an excavation site for the Goryeogung Palace Site, and to the south, there is a restored version of the Oeggyunggak library building. The Goryeogung Palace Site gives visitors a chance to learn about the history of palaces during the Goryeo Dynasty, the Ganghwa Yusubu government during the Joseon Dynasty, and the Oeggyunggak library during the late-Korean Empire.

9 Site of an intense battle during the US invasion of the Joseon Dynasty Gwangseongbo Fort

📍 27, Haeandong-ro 466beon-gil, Bureum-myeon, Ganghwa-gun
☎ 032) 930-7070

It was built as one of 12 fortifications along the Ganghwa coastline in 1658. When the US invaded the Joseon Dynasty and demanded to establish a trading relationship in April 1871, its landing party and the Joseon Dynasty forces engaged each other in close combat. Gwangseongbo Fort boasts the best view among all fortifications in Ganghwa thanks to the Yongduldonsae inside the fortification that features strange and bizarre-looking rocks and whirlois.

10 The childhood home of King Cheoljong Yongheunggung Palace

📍 16-1, Dongmunan-gil 21beon-gil, Ganghwa-eup, Ganghwa-gun

Yongheunggung Palace is the house in which King Cheoljong, who ruled the Joseon Dynasty during the mid-19th century, spent his youth until he was anointed the monarch of the country at the age of 19. Initially, the building was a thatched-roof cottage. However, it was rebuilt as a tile-roofed house and renamed as Yongheunggung Palace four years into King Cheoljong's reign. It features an inner hall, an annex, a Jangseogugi stone monument, and a Bigak (structure that houses a stone monument).

11 Where our ancestors enjoyed the arts Yeonmijeong Pavilion

📍 242, Wolgot-ri, Ganghwa-eup, Ganghwa-gun

The name "Yeonmijeong (Pavilion of the Swallow's Tail)" was inspired by the way the Imjingang River and Hangang River converged together and flowed out into the Yellow Sea (which looks like a Swallow's tail). With wide, expansive views, a pavilion with a beautiful roofline, two old Zelkova trees, Yeonmijeong offers the best view near the river mouth of Hangang.

12 Gateway to the vast land of Ganghwa Gapgot Fortification (War Museum)

📍 18, Haeandong-ro 1366beon-gil, Ganghwa-eup, Ganghwa-gun
☎ 032) 932-5464 🕒 9:00-18:00

Gapgot Fortification (Historical Landmark No. 306) will most likely be the very first landmark you come across when you arrive in Ganghwa. Completed in May 1679 (reign of King Sukjong), Gapgot Fortification was built as one of 48 fortifications across Ganghwa. Inside the fort compound, you will find a cluster of memorial stones commemorating the achievements of our ancestors, and a 400-year old trifoliate orange tree.

#Gyodongdo Island

1 The first Hyanggyo in Korea to feature a statue of Confucius Gyodonghyanggyo Confucian School

📍 229-49, Gyodongnam-ro, Gyodong-myeon, Ganghwa-gun

According to historical records, Ahn Hyang brought back a statue of Confucius as he returned from his trip from the Yuan Dynasty in China during the 12th year of King Chungnyeong's reign (1286). As the first Hyanggyo in Korea, Gyodonghyanggyo Confucian School Confucian scholars burn incense and pay respects to Confucius on the first day of each lunar month.

2 Get a bird's eye view of Gyodongdo Island from the top of Hwagaesan Mountain Gyodong Hwagaesa Temple

📍 229-9, Gyodongnam-ro, Gyodong-myeon, Ganghwa-gun

Built during the Goryeo Dynasty. However the exact year is unknown. According to the "Dongguk Jeong Seungnam," Hwagaesa (pen name: Mogun) used to read at Hwagaesa Temple in 1341 (2nd year of King Chungnyeol's reign).

3 Built to defend the village Gyodongseupsong Fortress

📍 229-9, Gyodongnam-ro, Gyodong-myeon, Ganghwa-gun

Built to defend the village, the Gyodongseupsong Fortress featured the municipal government house. It also served as the military headquarters for the navy of three provinces. The fortress wall spans 870m and has three gates to the east, south, and north. Today, only part of the rainbow-shaped south gate (Hongyeum Gate) remains.

4 Full of memories from the past Daeryong Market

📍 509, Daeryong-ri, Gyodong-myeon, Ganghwa-gun

The Daeryong Market is a can't-miss destination for photographers thanks to its charming storefronts that look almost like a movie set from the 1960s. The market has become a popular attraction among visitors thanks to the opening of the Gyodong Daeyo Bridge.

#Special Food Village

Oepo-ri Crab Village Jungang-ro, Naega-myeon

The Ganghwa Crab belongs to the Decapoda family of crabs. Female crabs taste their best between May and June (right before breeding), while male crabs taste their best in autumn. Ganghwa Crabs are low in fat, so they taste light and sweet. They are best known for their soft and smooth taste.

Deorimi Eel Village Haeandong-ro, Seonwon-myeon

The Ganghwa Eel has plenty of protein and collagen in its firm meat. It is one of the best ingredients you can choose to improve your health. In particular, Ganghwa Eel leaves next to no muddy or fishy odors, which means you can enjoy its light and savory taste.

Seonsu Baendaengi Village Haeannam-ro, Hwado-myeon

Thanks to the fact that the Hangang River, Yesonggang River, and Imjingang River all flow into the Yellow Sea off the coast of Ganghwa-gun, Ganghwa has the perfect environment for Large-eyed Herring. When roasted, the Large-eyed Herring has a crispy taste and serves up a subtle aroma of the sea. When prepared as a raw salad, it offers a delicious taste that is spicy and light at the same time.

Ganghwa-eup Byeolbamgeori Gwancheong-ri and the surrounding area in Ganghwa-eup

The Ganghwa-eup Byeolbamgeori is home to a wide variety of foods from Ganghwa. As its name suggests, it features signboards made in the shape of stars. The sculptures and landscape lighting fixtures adorning the streets are beautiful as well. Visitors can enjoy the Byeolbamgeori with their taste buds and their eyes.
